Do's and Don'ts for Jobseekers

To protect the interest of Jobseekers, some common suggestions/tips have been listed below in the form of Do's and Don'ts to guide the Jobseekers against fraud and for interview handling.

Do's

If you receive any communication from Employer regarding payment request at any stage of the hiring process, then DO check the identity/credential of the caller/email.

When you accept the invitation to the interview, DO be sure you know the name of the company. Do research on the company as much as you can before appearing for the interview.

DO prepare to ask intelligent questions about the job, the employer, or the industry. Having no questions to ask shows a lack of interest and/or preparation.

If presented with a job application, DO fill it out neatly, completely, and accurately.

DO dress up formally according to the job profile, company and Industry

DO wait until you are offered a chair before sitting.

In case you are greeting by shaking hands, DO shake hands firmly, make eye contact, and smile when you are introduced to someone. Avoid having a limp or sweaty handshake!

Don'ts

DON'T pay any amount to any person/entity for the sake of getting a job.

DON'T arrive late for the interview or for other rounds in the recruitment process.

DON'T eat, drink, or chew gum during the interview.

DON'T answer cellphone calls or send or respond to texts during the interview. Keep your cellphone turned off.

DON'T focus too much about salary, vacations, bonuses, retirement, or other benefits during the interview until you've received an offer. This is a very big DON'T that you can't lose track of during the interview.

DON'T answer questions with a simple "yes" or "no." Explain wherever possible.

DON'T over-answer questions. Sharing too much information can sometimes be more damaging than not sharing enough.
